SACRAMENTO WOMAN IS TAKEN

Retaining a clam-like reticence during her entire stay in the city prison, Mrs. C. B. Blackwood, alias Jessie Crocker, was turned over to Chief of Police W. H. Athern this afternoon, and, in his custody, left Ogdien at 3 o'clock for Sacramento, Cal. According to the police the woman has made not a single statement since her arrest that would connect her in any way with the theft of the Gerber diamonds.

The female prisoner's defiant attitude is looked upon by Chief Athern as merely an evidence of her long experience in crime. In talking of the case this morning, he stated that the woman has been arrested for similar robberies before and was convicted for stealing diamonds in Pennsylvania years ago. The officer states that the woman and her husband were employed in Sacramento for a time by the street railway company in the capacity of "spotters," their work being to report to the company any conductors who might not ring up fares which they had collected. It is also claimed that the pair worked together in many other occupations of distasteful nature.

Before leaving the city prison, the woman was again searched, City Physician Anna Reis assisting Mrs. Hebert Anderson in exploring the woman's cell, clothing and body. No trace of the diamonds, however, were discovered.

Mrs. Blackwood has signified her desire to get back to Sacramento and to have a private talk with W. C. Sawyer, the banker from whom the diamonds were stolen. It is believed that the woman contemplates forming a compromise with the loser of the stones, revealing to him the hiding

FOUR MEN DIE IN COLLISION OF TRAINS

ELLENBURG, Wash., Dec. 29.—Four men were killed in a collision between a construction train and a freight train at Rye, on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad today. The body of Brakeman Collins of the construction train was found in the wreckage late today, making the fourth death. Ten seriously injured are in the hospital here. J. Magnuson has a fractured skull and is not expected to survive. Several other injured men are being cared for in the construction camp.

No fear was entertained at the time for the American quarter, which is about a mile distant.

SHEEHAN WANTS TO SUCCEED DEPEW

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—William F. Sheehan made formal announcement of his candidacy for the United States senate tonight in a letter addressed to Mayor Furman, of Buffalo, who, with other leading Buffalo Democrats, recently endorsed him for the seat to become vacant when the term of Senator Depew expires on March 4.

In defining his attitude toward national questions, Mr. Sheehan declares his belief in the letter and spirit of the platform adopted at the last Democratic state convention.

His letter opens with an expression of satisfaction that the opportunity of consenting to the consideration of his name for the senatorship comes from "his old neighbors and friends" in Buffalo.

He urges that whoever the Democratic party chooses for senator his usefulness as a public officer be not weakened by unjust criticism during his candidacy.

Downward Revision of Tariff. He declares himself in favor of a bona-fide downward revision of the tariff, and continues:

"Trusts and combinations that control the necessities of life and increase the cost of living are largely the result of excessive protective duties. For the immediate present, that momentous question has been removed from the domain of politics."

IS TIRED OF LIFE BUT STILL LIVES

Police Find Farewell Letter and Poison in Room of Frank Tustison.

Salt Lake, Dec. 30.—Frank Tustison, who says he is 26 years old and a shoe clerk, is behind the bars at the city jail, with the charge against him undetermined.

The city detective force under direction of Captain Beckstead, is busy on the case, which presents unusual features.

Within the past two days there has appeared in both morning papers of the city, advertisements reading: "Wanted, young lady assistant, of good appearance. Doctor Boyd, Savoy hotel."

This was one of the "ads." The other was similar, except that the name appended was "Doctor Loyler."

It was the large number of applicants who sought the position that led to Tustison's arrest.

When the young woman came they were told that Doctor Loyler was out of town, but would be back shortly, and were asked, if accepted as suitable applicants, to make a deposit of $250.

How many paid this deposit the officers have not learned. The prisoner denies receiving any money, but tells so many conflicting stories that no credence is given to anything he says.

After Tustison was arrested by Detectives Ripley and Cleveland, they searched his room, No. 90, at the Savoy hotel, on East First South street, but found nothing of value. They found in his suit case, however, a bottle of carbolic acid and a letter, reading:

"Realizing my condition, as a last favor, address C. W. Tustison, Kewanee, Ill., A. B. Hook, Wapello, Ia., and Mrs. Blanche Cole, 107 West Jefferson street, Boise, Ida. Good-bye, Doc."

The prisoner told the detectives that his heart was bad and that he expected to drop dead any minute, but denied having any carbolic acid in his room. He told a rambling, conflicting story as to his movements in the past two years, and alleged that in inserting the ads in the daily papers he was only following instructions.

When the applicants for places who proved acceptable agreed to take situations as assistant to the "doctor" at $25 a week and expenses, they were, in each case that the officers here investigated, directed to a place that proved to be only a vacant lot.

Tustison said he knew nothing about this.

In the opinion of the officers the accused man is either of abnormal type or is a drug fiend. He is tall, slender, of dark complexion, nervous in his demeanor, but seemingly indifferent as to his fate.

The police regard the case as one likely to develop several interesting phases.

For a mild, easy action of the bowels, a simple dose of Doan's Regulets is enough. Treatment cures habitual constipation. 25 cents a box. Ask your druggist for them.

Attorney General Albert B. Barnes is anxious to repeal that section of the Utah law which justifies a man for slaying the destroyer of his home. In his biennial report to the governor, Barnes recommends that this part of the law relating to homicide be eliminated from the statute books at the coming session of the legislature.

According to the statute which the attorney general condemns, the slaying must be done in a sudden heat of passion by one whose wife, sister, mother or other woman member of the family of defendant has been wronged. It is said that Utah is the only state in the Union where such a law exists.

The "written law" in Utah, which is the unwritten law in other states, will cease to exist if the legislature accepts the attorney general's view of the subject as given in his report.

The attorney general recommends that subdivision 4 of section 4163, Compiled Laws of Utah, be repealed, upon the ground that it is useless and that many guilty men escape by reason of its provisions.

Passed at Young's Behest. This law, it is said, was written in the statutes of the territory of Utah at the behest of Brigham Young, and it was retained when Utah was clothed with statehood. Utah is the only state in the Union having such a law.

Should the provision be repealed and the common law govern, it would put an entirely different face upon the killings of the character. Then, if one man killed another under the law as it now reads, he would be guilty of manslaughter. If the killing occurred after the defiling and the slayer had time to think it over before the killings, he would be guilty of murder in the first degree.

How Common Law Would Work. The working of the common law, should the present special law be repealed, can well be shown by the noted case of the state of Utah versus Captain Mills, former politician and army officer.

Mills went to St. Mark's hospital and obtained a signed confession from his wife that Chief Engineer O'Malley of the Oregon Short Line Railroad company had wronged her. Mills left the hospital, went to his room, approximately two miles distant, took a revolver from his trunk, went to the office of O'Malley and killed him. Mills was acquitted, under the provisions of the law which Mr. Barnes seeks to repeal, despite the fact that the prosecution charged premeditation between the time the confession was made and the common law prevail it would all be up to the jury.

COOP'S NIECE IS ALLOWED TO LAND

Objections Entered by the Professor's Wife Were Withdrawn.

New York, Dec. 30.—The objections entered by Mrs. Squire Coop, the wife of the distinguished Utah professor of music, to the landing of Miss Jeanette Cooke, her niece and the ward of Professor Coop, who arrived at New York Wednesday from England, were withdrawn yesterday by Mrs. Coop, through her attorneys. The detention of the 18-year-old girl on Ellis Island yesterday was accomplished by Mrs. Coop, who declared that she had feared that the young woman was coming to America to take the place of the wife in the affections of the professor.

Coop is Legal Guardian. Professor Coop today presented papers and letters to Mrs. Coop's attorneys showing that he was the legal guardian of the young woman and that it was at her father's urgent request that she was coming to America to attend school and to study music under the direction of Professor Coop. This documentary evidence was sufficient to prove to the satisfaction of Mrs. Coop and her attorneys that the fears of Mrs. Coop were groundless and that Professor Coop was acting honorably in his capacity as guardian for the young woman.

Mrs. Coop today admitted that she had been under a misunderstanding and that her action was unwarranted. She said that, although she had been separated from Professor Coop for three years and that the professor was suing her for divorce, she was still madly in love with him and was jealous of his attentions to Miss Cooke or any one else. She said that Miss Cooke was highly musical and that she also feared that she would alienate the affections of Professor Coop.

Correspondence. Mrs. Coop had intercepted correspondence between her husband and her niece and from this correspondence she feared that the arrival of Miss Cooke from Europe was not solely for the purpose of acquiring an academic and musical education. These letters, however, she admits, contained merely the affectionate correspondence that might naturally be expected between a father and his daughter.

IRIGATION PROJECTS TO RECLAIM INDIAN LANDS

Washington, Dec. 30.—About twenty-five irrigation projects, ranging from minor works to undertakings involving millions, are now in the hands of construction for the reclamation of Indian lands under the direction of the bureau of Indian affairs. These works are scattered over ten states and two territories. Altogether the larger projects are located in Idaho, Montana, Nevada and Washington.

The problems met by the irrigation engineers in building projects in the West are less difficult than those met in the south and this in view of the fact that the works in the northern states are much larger than those in the south. The reason for this, it is explained, is that there is more abundant supply of water in the north than in the south. The reason for this, it is explained, is that there is more abundant supply of water in the north than in the south.

PARLOR CAR SERVICE ACROSS THE ISTHMUS

Washington, Dec. 30.—A parlor car service across the Isthmus to Panama is the latest idea of the canal commission. Probably this is to be instituted under the impression that a good many passengers will leave the ships while they are passing through the canal for the brief change in the voyage offered by the two hours rail run across the Isthmus.

One car already is being fitted out and if the service is profitable, all passenger trains will carry such cars.

Ten minutes has also been cut off the running time across the Isthmus, which is now two hours and five minutes.

FANEUIL HALL IS CLOSED TO PAINTINGS

Boston, Dec. 20.—The reasons for the failure of the municipal art commission to approve of a plan to place a memorial painting of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe in historic Faneuil Hall, for which the public has subscribed nearly $3,000, are given in an open letter from Chairman Thomas Allen of the commission. He says:

"Yielding to no one in its reverence for the associations centered in Faneuil Hall, the board of art commissioners is forced to decide that this hall is already overcrowded with portraits, some hung so high and others so badly lighted that it is impossible to recognize either the painter or the painted. The only space left is along the gallery balustrade and when a painting is hung there it not only interrupts the outlook of persons in the gallery but owing to cross lights and actual lack of light cannot itself be seen to advantage. The architectural unity of the hall moreover is destroyed by hanging pictures along the balcony rail. Furthermore, experts say that the paintings in Faneuil Hall are subject to destructive atmospheric conditions which have injured some of them beyond repair. In these circumstances it seems undesirable to add more portraits."

WOMEN CARRYING ON A CAMPAIGN FOR SUFFRAGE

New York, Dec. 30.—The central part of New York City is brilliant today with many-colored posters urging votes for women, which gaudily decorated telegraph poles, fences and other available spots along a dozen streets. All this is the result of a "poster-pasting bee" which the members of the Woman's Political Union held last night.

They started from their headquarters in small squads at the evening each having a roll of posters and a paste pot. Dividing, they covered the city from East to West from 26th to 54th street. Wherever there was a building in process of construction, barrels standing around or a vacant space which did not have a "post no bills" warning they put up their posters.

The bill posting bee is credited with being the opening gun of the militant winter campaign.

NEW YORK HAD A RIVER OF FIRE

New York, Dec. 30.—West 17th street was a river of flame for half a mile last night. A truck that carries gasoline for the public park streets, spilled several barrels into the street. The truck burst and the gasoline flowed down hill for ten blocks. Small boys set the stream afire and in five minutes the flames had spread to the bottom of the hill. The fire blazed fiercely for fifteen minutes. Nobody was hurt and no damage was done, but the spectacle drew a great crowd.

MALAD FARMER KILLED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Malad, Ida., Dec. 28.—Francis Deschamps, a young farmer of this valley, sustained injuries in an accident at the grain elevator at the O. S. L. station this morning from which he died at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Deschamps was engaged in having a load of forty sacks of grain weighed, when the sack on which he was sitting slipped with him and he fell between the wagon and horses. The horses became frightened and ran, dragging him for a short distance, when the lines were wrenched from his hands and two wheels of the heavily loaded wagon passed over his body breaking every rib and frightfully crushing him internally.

Doctors Kerns, Ray and Wright were immediately summoned and did what could be done to alleviate his suffering.

Mr. Deschamps was a member of a prominent Malad family, and is survived by a widow, three children and many other relatives, among whom is Prof. Evan Stephens of Salt Lake, who is his uncle.

SCOUTING SHIPS TO TRY TO LOCATE THE "ENEMY'S" BATTLESHIPS APPROACHING CUBA FROM ENGLAND

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 29.—Interesting and important ocean scouting exercises are about to be undertaken by the Fifth division of the Atlantic fleet, commanded by Rear Admiral Sidney A. Staunton and consisting of the armored cruisers Tennessee, Washington, North Carolina and Montana and the scout cruisers Chester, Birmingham and Salem. These vessels are to go to sea from Hampton Roads and attempt to locate and keep in touch with the battleship fleet under Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, which has been visiting England and was scheduled to assemble in the English channel December 30 and sail for Guantanamo, Cuba. The question as to whether a foreign fleet in time of war could surprise the American navy scouts and approach one of our ports is an ever present one with naval experts. This scouting expedition will be carried on as if the approaching fleet were an enemy. Among the sixteen battleships are the Dreadnoughts Delaware and South Dakota. One of Rear Admiral Staunton's most formidable ships is the armored cruiser Tennessee.
